Overview

What's happening on Heard Island & McDonald Islands?

Landing stores, Atlas Cove, Heard Island with Rogers Head in background
Photo: Alan Campbell-Drury Due to the extreme isolation of Heard Island and McDonald Islands (HIMI), together with the persistently severe weather and sea conditions, human activities in the region have been, and remain, limited.

How many people have landed on Heard Island?

Since the first landing on Heard Island in 1855, there have been only approximately 240 shore-based visits to the island, and only two landings on McDonald Island (in 1971 and 1980).

Are there scientific studies on Heard Island?

Although hindered by the extreme isolation and unfavourable working conditions, scientific studies have been carried out on Heard Island since the first research visit by scientists from the HMS Challenger in 1874. See the Research Expeditions pages in the History section of this website for more information.

How many private yachts have visited Heard Island?

A low number of private yachts and commercial tourist vessels have visited Heard Island, although few successful landings have been made due to poor weather. Other private expeditions have included brief visits by ham radio enthusiasts, private scientific groups and mountaineering parties.

Does the Australian Antarctic Division have a refuge on Heard Island?

The Australian Antarctic Division (AAD) generally maintains one or two refuges on Heard Island which are equipped with basic provisions, but because their presence and ability to be maintained varies with AADs operational requirements these cannot be relied upon for shelter.

Heard and McDonald Islands

Heard and McDonald Islands. Heard Island and McDonald Islands are located in the Southern Ocean, approximately 1,700 km from the Antarctic continent and 4,100 km south-west of Perth. As the only volcanically active subantarctic islands they 'open a window into the earth', thus providing the opportunity to observe ongoing geomorphic

Human activities - Heard and McDonald Islands

Personnel usually split into project-specific groups, accommodated in huts or tents at Spit Bay, Atlas Cove and other minor camps distributed across the island. Power is supplied by small diesel generators, solar cells and wind generators.

Solar Energy In Indonesia: Potential and Outlook

This progress is part of Indonesia's solar energy plan, which targets 5 GW of installed capacity by 2030. The growth of solar power in Indonesia reflects not just a commitment to shift away from its fossil fuel-dominated energy system but also recognises the immense potential the solar energy holds in the Indonesian archipelago.

Sustainable energy: the airports harnessing green energy

The airport uses a combination of solar panels and air source heat pumps to power lighting and heating in the airport as well as renewable energy provided by global renewable energy supplier Orsted. Around 15% of the renewable energy is being produced by the airport itself with the remaining 85% being provided by Orsted.

Solar Energy in the Philippines Will Play a Growing Role

The Philippines has a population of 115 million people across over 7,500 islands; geographical location can make total electrification difficult - especially on a single central grid. Therefore, microgrids that serve local communities have been gaining traction. These systems easily incorporate solar power to ensure access to clean energy.

> Solar Power Calculator

This solar power calculator will, given the Watt rating of a solar panel, your solar panel location and your grid cost of electricity produce a table indicating the estimated solar powered energy you can expect to generate from an installed system in Winter and Summer, along with the calculated yearly average and equivalent costs of supplying the same electricity ...

Inside the world's largest dam-based floating solar power project

Floating solar technologies make use of unoccupied bodies of water, such as lakes or artificial basins, to locate and produce solar power. Proponents of the technology say that it could scale up the use of renewable power significantly, particularly in countries that have large populations and limited spare land, such as in many Asian nations.
