A lot of stuff is made in China sure but there's more to the story than that. Stuff designed in the 'West' and produced in China can be very high quality. The technical ability to design and produce top quality native Chinese products is there too, but for every good bit of quality gear designed and produced in China there are 10,000 crap items.

Anyone buy direct from China? : r/SolarDIY

It is precisely because of these all-glass vacuum tube water heaters that China completely dominates the world solar thermal installations. It is absurd how far ahead China is on this. Yeah, I'd just have to cut back from 15kw w/a 19 kwh powerwall, to a 9.4kw w a 14.4 PW.
